The primary functional aspiration for this project is to provide the residents with a dynamic environment in which to live and interact. This idea of layering is applied both vertically between all floors and horizontally across programs. By layering multiple programs, the proposed interactive environment will be derived from.

The primary functional aspiration for this project is to provide the residents with a dynamic environment in which to live and interact. This idea of layering is applied both vertically between all floors and horizontally across programs. By layering multiple programs, the proposed interactive environment will be derived from.

The primary functional aspiration for this project is to provide the residents with a dynamic environment in which to live and interact. This idea of layering is applied both vertically between all floors and horizontally across programs. By layering multiple programs, the proposed interactive environment will be derived from.

The primary functional aspiration for this project is to provide the residents with a dynamic environment in which to live and interact. This idea of layering is applied both vertically between all floors and horizontally across programs. By layering multiple programs, the proposed interactive environment will be derived from.